

Sweet Success- Organizing Tip

I wanted to share with you the following words of success that arrived in my inbox... I think they are enough of a tip for this week.

Hurrah! And may you get to a similar place...

my cleaning out process has been amazing!

just today i spent 4 wonderful hours, removed garden chairs from storage under my studio....i was worried that the garbage truck would not collect large metal chairs.

within minutes a fellow with a truck stopped and scooped them up, plus two additional chairs, barbecue, xmas tree stand, defunct metal table frame, plastic table, and full picnic table set.

he took it all away for a weekend party, needed it all, and the rest would be recycled....he is in the metal collecting biz!

now, is that the universe at work?!!

it is getting easier and easier to chuck and recycle everything, so satisfying. i have accepted that if there is something i REALLY need in the future i WILL be able to acquire it.

makes me smile,

k.
