

What About Old Computers?

A belated tip this week- so I will make it short. I often am asked what to do with old computers. Here is a piece of great news that I have discovered with thanks to our local waste management folks.

Go to www.dell.com/recycle to get the full story. Here's an excerpt!

Donate

Dell provides consumers a donation option for old computers. When you are ready for a new system there are neighbors in your community who could make use of your old one. Through Dell Recycling, consumers can donate their computers to the National Cristina Foundation to help disabled and economically disadvantaged children and adults in your own community. The foundation will pick up your computer at your door and put it to good use in your community.

Recycle

If recycling your computer is your preference, Dell offers an environmentally friendly method to dispose of outdated computer equipment that no longer has useful life.

Dell is happy to accept any brand of computer, keyboard, mouse, monitor or printer. And Dell will pick it up at your home. "

That's what they are promising. Give it a try during your spring decluttering! And please let us know what happens!
